

GDPR readiness survey results

October 2017

With only a few months to go before the GDPR becomes law in May 2018, Socitm conducted a survey to gauge public sector organisations' readiness for the new rules.

Here's what the survey highlighted

When asked

which key steps have been taken in preparation for GDPR...

70%

said they have developed a strategy paper

but only

47%

have had their strategy plan approved

42%

have a data protection officer and team appointed

15%

have managed to review and amend procedures

yet only

5%

have updated and distributed IT policies to all staff

55%

have started a data classification exercise

30%

have a staff training programme in place

GDPR awareness

differs between key decision-makers and senior executive teams

100%

of decision-makers and key people in organisations are aware of the GDPR and understand the impact it is likely to have but...

awareness amongst senior executive teams varies...

20%

Poor / Very poor

20%

Average / Fair

60%

Excellent / Good

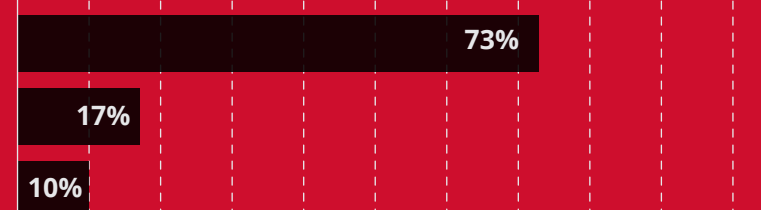

GDPR readiness

funding levels and budgets differed

up to £25,000

£25,000 – £50,000

over £50,000

Good information governance is achieved by following specific industry standards

have or are currently reviewing their framework of documented policies and procedures around ISO 27001, ISO 27002, PCI-DSS and PSN

GDPR preparation

needs a lot more work

only

22%

have prepared specific policies in preparation for the GDPR...

...and within that 22%,

52%

rated their preparation as Average / Poor

and

48%

rated it as Good / Very Good

Overall grading for

GDPR readiness as of October 2017

17%

are prepared

52%

have a plan that needs to be actioned

25%

have started research

6%

have not given it any thought